

Davis International Scholars Program
Information for Candidates and their Families

Overview

ASSIST is working closely with schools of the Davis International Scholars Program. Therefore, candidates can express an interest in being considered for both scholarships – ASSIST and Davis – being offered through this competition.

The Davis Program

The Davis International Scholars Program offers students the opportunity to earn a scholarship to attend an independent boarding school in the U.S. that is a member of this program. Students attend the schools for two or three years and stay to earn a diploma. After graduation, if students are accepted to any one of 95 universities in the U.S. affiliated with the Davis Program, funding from the Program continues at $25,000 per year for four years.

The number of Davis Scholarships is very limited – only approximately eight worldwide through ASSIST – so we advise candidates to apply for a Davis Scholarship in addition to an ASSIST scholarship. After the interviews, if students in the scholarship competition are chosen to become Davis Scholarship candidates, they will apply directly to one of the Davis schools for admission. There is no program fee charged to families, but families must pay the personal expenses of their children (airfare, spending money, health insurance, books and supplies, etc.).

Applicants selected as finalists and who indicated an interest in the Davis Scholars Program in their application must complete the Family Financial Declaration form and submit it by the deadline provided by your country coordinator or ASSIST. The funds are reserved for students whose families genuinely need financial assistance.

Designation of Interest

If you wish to be considered for a Davis scholarship, please indicate so on the web-based application form.
